HEALTH AND BEAUTY

You do have less free-wheeling surplus energy if you are over 35. You have slowed up a little and you may as well face it. Generalizations of course, don't always apply. One person of 45 can have more energy left than an average 20 - year old to begin with. Another may have less at 50 than a 70-year-old. It depends on the person.

Studies show that it is possible to compensate for the slight drop in energy by more knowhow and experience. You make fewer wasted motions, you put more value on your time. For you, time seems to be rushing by faster than it did.

It is true that faster-living organisms, like a fly, think a day is much longer than does a slower-living mechanism, like an elephant. To the hopped-up insect, a day seems plenty long for a life-time. He buzzes around thinking he has eons to waste.

After your metabolism rate drops, your time sense speeds up, and a day seems shorter to you and tomorrow is always upon you. It is hard to get as much done in a day as you did before, and you may have the feeling that you never complete your job. The trick is to know that this is natural, and not to expect quite as much of yourself as you did a few years ago.

Pushing yourself past your energy may be all right once in a great while, but a steady diet of thistreatmetin, and your body will pay.

The middle years should be a period of inventiveness when a man is best able to try out new and original ideas.

Try to relax and be yourself. Do some of the things you have always wanted to do, but never had the nerve or the time.

Give A Second Though To Watering Equipment

Poultry waterers should be easy to clean.

Specialists at VPI say to remember that fact when you're shopping for new watering euipment for the poultry flock. Plan arrangements so the water will not readily become fouled with litter. Locate waterers and feeders so layers do not have to travel far to the supply. An egg is about 70 per cent water, and a laying flock uses lots of water to keep up egg production. Each 100 birds will use five or six gallons of water per day — even more in warm weather.

When planning a washing system, the specialists add, include provision for washing eggs and cleaning the holding room, packing room, and all equipment.

Excuses rarely fool people, despite notions to the contrary.

About the only thing one can't buy these days in a reputation.

You have so much to be thankful for in 1960, so why not be thankful.
